STP

- STP stands for Segmentation, Targeting, and Positioning—a key marketing strategy framework:
- Segmentation – Divide the market into groups based on shared traits (e.g., age, needs, behavior).
- Targeting – Select the most suitable segment(s) to focus your product or service on.
- Positioning – Craft a clear, appealing message to show how your offering is different and better for the chosen segment.

Business Models

- Business models define what needs to be implemented in parallel, such as marketing strategies, distribution, delivery, sales processes, etc.
- A good business model identifies users and customers to set product or service development guidelines.

THE VALUE PROPOSITION CANVAS

How To Use The Value Proposition Canvas - garyfox.co

BUSINESS MODEL CANVAS

You achieve Fit when your value map meets your customer profile - when your products and services produce pain relievers and gain creators that match one or more of the jobs, pains, and gains that are important to your customer.

Your sets of products/services/and their features.

Cost structure

Cost structure (VIII) refers to the cost structure of a business unit.

A cost structure describes all the costs incurred to implement a business model.

Creating and delivering value Maintaining customer relationships and generating revenue comes at a cost.

Two main types of expenses:

- 1.) Fixed Cost (FC): Costs that remain the same despite the high production volume of goods or services.
- 2.) Variable Cost (VC): A cost proportional to the volume of goods or services produced.

External vs Internal Factors

- Internal and external factors:
- External factors are factors that occur outside the business and impact how it conducts business. Internal factors are factors that occur inside the company and impact its business.
- External factors include political, economic, social, technological, environmental, legal, competitors, buyers, suppliers, and substitute products.
- Internal factors include value chain, values, vision, missions, strategies, management styles, capabilities, human resources, culture, technological and physical resources, and organizational structure.

What is not included in the McKinsey 7S Framework, The Activity System Map, Value Chain, and PESTEL can be added during the SWOT Analysis stage.

TOWS Matrix

What is the TOWS Matrix?

- TOWS analysis is an extension of the SWOT analysis.
- While SWOT tends to focus on brainstorming all points that fall under these four headings, TOWS takes it to the next step.
- TOWS helps you to understand strategic choices.

Source: <https://www.mindtools.com/augstul/the-tows-matrix>

TOWS

- How can we make the most of our strengths?
- How do we circumvent our weaknesses?
- How can we capitalize on external opportunities?
- How should we best manage threats?

TOWS

	External Opportunities (O)	External Threats (T)
Internal Strengths (S)	SO "Maxi-Maxi Strategy" Strategies that use strengths to maximize opportunities.	ST "Maxi-Mini Strategy" Strategies that use strengths to minimize threats.
Internal Weaknesses (W)	WO "Mini-Maxi Strategy" Strategies that minimize weaknesses by taking advantage of opportunities.	WT "Mini-Mini Strategy" Strategies that minimize weaknesses and avoid threats.

TOWS Matrix

- TOWS builds upon SWOT to develop strategic approaches by identifying strategic options from the organization's internal and external factors.

Internal Analysis

From the internal analysis, which internal factors are strengths, and which are weaknesses, based on their significance?

strengths	weaknesses
1.) (minimum impact)	1.) (minimum impact)
2.)	2.)

Balanced Scorecard, and Strategy Map

The Balanced Scorecard (BSC)

- The Balanced Scorecard is a tool that aligns business activities to the, mission, vision, and strategy of the organization.
- It integrates four perspectives: Financial, Customer, Internal Process, and Learning & Growth, each with specific objectives to improve profitability, customer satisfaction, process efficiency, and organizational capabilities.

Balanced Scorecard Framework*

Strategy Map

- A Strategy Map shows the cause-and-effect relationships between the objectives across the four perspectives: Financial, Customer, Internal Business Processes, and Learning & Growth.
- It illustrates how the achievement of objectives in one area influences the outcomes in another, aligning them with the overall strategy of the organization.

Financial Perspective

- The Financial Perspective focuses on improving profitability, increasing revenue, and reducing operational costs.
- It measures financial performance to ensure the organization meets its financial objectives, sustains growth, and delivers value to shareholders.

Customer Perspective

- The Customer Perspective aims to enhance customer satisfaction by improving the clarity of offerings, market perception, and overall customer experience.
- It emphasizes understanding and meeting customer needs to foster loyalty and increase market share.

Internal Process Perspective

- The Internal Process Perspective targets the efficiency and effectiveness of internal operations.
- It focuses on optimizing offering selection, enhancing information services, ensuring stock reliability, and controlling costs to streamline processes and deliver high-quality products or services.

Learning and Growth Perspective

- The Learning and Growth Perspective emphasizes building organizational capabilities through employee development, technology improvement, and fostering a lean culture.
- It supports the continuous improvement of skills, innovation, and cultural alignment to drive long-term success and adaptability.

Strategy Map

- The objective must lead the organization towards the vision.
- In each objective, there is a set of measurement tools or indicators (indicators).
- Each metric has a desired target value.
- The business must conduct activities for the organization to achieve the desired target value
- Each activity must consist of people, budget, and implementation time.

Strategic Objective	Measure	Target Value	Initiative
